Content: Malaysian food is one of the tastiest and mouth-watering food that brings the true delicacy to your palate and a real charm to your hosted event. Like everything else in Malaysia, the Malaysian food is a flamboyant mixture of all the people who are an integral part of the country. The standard of Thai, Indian, Chinese, and many other types of Asian cuisine makes the unique blend that is Malaysian cuisine. The Asian influence on the Malaysian food extends from the use of the wok to the intelligent and unique combinations of spices used in many favourite dishes.

Malay food is spicy, not always necessarily chilli-hot, but there will at the least, be chilli-based sambal on hand. The traditional Southeast Asian herbs and rare spices meet together in Malaysian food, leading to aromatic combinations of cumin and coriander with lemongrass, cardamom, star anise, kaffir lime leaves, and fenugreek. At Chuba Rasa, our most famous Malaysian dish is Nasi Lemak means Fatty rice. It is a dish of rice steamed with coconut milk and served with dried anchovies, peanuts, dried shrimp, hard boiled eggs, sambal and cucumber. The Malaysian desserts are amazingly colourful and creative, including the layered rice flour and coconut sweets, sweet coconut rice balls and multi-layered butter cake known as Lapis Legit. At Chuba Rasa, we also serve a popular Malaysian dessert known as Kuih Bahulu, the mini sponge cakes that are dipped in black coffee.

Rich, spicy and full of surprises! This is the way our carefully prepared best tasting Malaysian Food in London can be described.
